Concept Question 7-3: Why do we use cyclic convolutions instead of linear convolutions?

Linear convolution of a signal with even a short impulse response lengthens it. Cyclic convolution does not lengthen it. Using cyclic convolution, the total length of the wavelet transform of a signal equals the length of the original signal.