Concept Question 8-4: Since $\mathscr{P}[y=c]=0$ for any continuous random variable $y$ and constant $c$, how can $p(x \mid y)$ make sense?
$p(x \mid y)$ is the pdf for $x$ if $y$ is restricted to the value $c$, even though the latter has probability zero.

