

Concept Question 1-1: What is a camera's point spread function? What role does it play in the image formation process?

The point-spread function of a camera is the image formed in the image plane due to a point source in the object plane. It is the spatial version of an impulse response.